

Endémicos Insulares, A.C.

Para el estudio y conservación de las Islas Mexicanas y las especies que en ellas habitan

Special Tour. October 3, 2006

Central Veracruz Raptor Migration

By popular demand, the main focus of this day of birding will be the world famous raptor migration of central Veracruz. Just to the north of Veracruz City, we will be visiting several sites from the beaches of the Gulf Coast to the tropical dry forests of the coastal plain. In addition to migrating raptors, we will also be looking for thousands of southbound waterbirds, doves, passerines, butterflies and dragonflies.

Midday break in Cardel.

Please note: Raptor migration and local weather are natural events, and even though we will be within the peak of migration, we cannot guarantee a day observing hundreds of thousands of raptors.